FEDS HAVE BIAGGI, ESPOSITO IN WIRETAP BOMBSHELL

By MURRAY WEISS

REP. Mario Biaggi's secretly recorded gripe to former Brooklyn Democratic boss Meade Esposito about a $2500 Florida hotel bill is at the heart of a federal grand jury probe, The Post has learned.

"How come it's on my bill?" Biaggi demanded after his January 1986 American Express statement included the bill for his December vacation.

"You sent me down there," he, reminded Esposito.

Federal authorities say the trip was part of a deal in which the Bronx congressman agreed to help a near-bankrupt Brooklyn ship repair company in exchange for the paid vacation.

The company, Coastal Dry Dock & Repair Corp., owed Esposito's insurance firm more than $600,000 in premiums.

One source said Esposito complained to Biaggi that "I'm being ruined" by Coastal.

Biaggi contends that any efforts for Coastal were only in keeping with his job.

The Post reported yesterday that federal prosecutors believe a grand jury has heard enough evidence to indict both Biaggi and his long-time political ally.

The Post has also learned that:

• Charges being considered against Biaggi include misuse of office and obstruction of justice.

• Brooklyn U.S. Attorney Andrew Maloney is probing connections between organized crime, the Brooklyn Democratic organi-

Pol's voice takes feds by surprise

MARIO Biaggi's troubles began when his voice unexpectedly turned up in phone taps during a heavyweight organized crime investigation.

Federal officials say the FBI was probing the Genovese crime family and the gambling empire allegedly headed by Frederick (Fritz) Giovanelli.

Former Brooklyn Democratic boss Meade Esposito was a long-time Giovanelli friend — even serving as godfather to his son. When Esposito surfaced on Giovanelli wiretaps — bragging about making judgeship deals — the probe took a new turn.

Sources said it was transferred to the FBI's political corruption unit, which started tapping Esposito's home and business lines.

The probe into Esposito and the mob marked a potential breakthrough in information about the interaction of politics and organized crime.

Totally unexpectedly, Biaggi's voice surfaced on the wiretaps, talking about Coastal Dry Dock, a failing ship repair firm that owed Esposito $600,000.

— Mario Biaggi, in taped conversation

Mario Biaggi's complaint over billing of a $2500 Florida vacation bill figures in a federal grand jury probe of corruption and conspiracy to obstruct justice.

with Coastal Drydock, he told them he had been wrongly billed and that Esposito was supposed to pay the tab.

Sources said Biaggi — unaware that the veteran Brooklyn pol's line was tapped — then phoned Esposito and told him how he had explained the bill to the FBI.

As part of the probe, FBI agents seized records of Coastal Dry Dock, Beaumont Printing, and Serres, Visone & Rice, a Manhattan insurance company owned by Esposito.

Most of Biaggi's records dating back to Jan. 1, 1984, have also been seized.

Sources said Maloney's judgeship probe stems from wiretaps on both Esposito and his longtime friend Frederick (Fritz) Giovanelli, a Genovese crime family capo charged in the January 1986 slaying of Detective Anthony Venditti.

Tapes said to trip Biaggi and Meade

By JERRY CAPECI

Daily News Staff Writer

Secret FBI tapes are the basis for planned indictments against Bronx Rep. Mario Biaggi and retired Brooklyn Democratic boss Meade Esposito in connection with an illicit scheme to save a failing ship repair firm, sources told the Daily News yesterday.

The taped conversations between the long-time political allies and others show that Esposito paid for a Florida vacation for Biaggi in return for the congressman's influence on behalf of Coastal Dry Dock and its president, Charles Montanti, the sources said.

The tapes indicate that Esposito, 80, disguised the payoff as a legal fee paid by La Beaumont Printing Co. to well-known Manhattan defense lawyer James LaRossa, according to sources having knowledge of the transcripts. Sources said Esposito funneled about $3,000 to Biaggi on Dec. 22-Jan. 3 vacation last year through LaRossa's law firm.

LaRossa, not a target of the investigation, said he cooperated fully with the investigation.

Brooklyn Organized Crime like Force Chief Edward Donald sent a proposed indictment against Esposito and Biaggi to Washington this week for review by Justice Department officials, according to sources.

Neither McDonald nor Brooklyn U.S. Attorney Edward Maloney would comment on the latest developments in the investigation, which grew out of telephone taps and bugs placed by the FBI at a Manhattan insurance brokerage firm that Esposito controls.

Sources said the proposed charges include bribery and obstruction of justice.

The sources said that on Dec. 17, 1985, Biaggi told Esposito: "By the way, we've been doing wonders for Montanti. On the city side, we've been working very hard with them. On the federal side, we've been getting them money."

Received $1.2M

Two days later, on Dec. 19, Esposito told Joseph Martuscello, his partner in the Serres, Visone & Rice brokerage firm, that Montanti had acknowledged the receipt of $1.2 million through Biaggi's influence, sources said.

The next day, Martuscello called Esposito and reported, "Chief, we got Charlie all squared away. Thank God." Later in the conversation, Esposito says, "We got to get him two more million."

Two weeks earlier, on

Dec. 2, after meeting Biaggi for lunch, Esposito told Martuscello, "We had a good meeting and we're going to town on it. ... Everybody's going to get involved here." Sources said the remark was a reference to other congressmen approached by Biaggi on behalf of Coastal Dry Dock.

At the time, the Navy was contesting some $28 million in invoices the financially troubled firm had submitted for payment, and Coastal was having trouble paying its debts.

Coastal, in the Brooklyn

Navy Yard, filed for bankruptcy last May, owing Esposito's insurance brokerage firm $613,000.

During one telephone conversation with LaRossa, Esposito told the lawyer: "Remember the arrangement I made for Biaggi down at the Bonaventure (Spa) thing."

LaRossa: "Yeah."

Esposito: "And you billed me."

LaRossa: "Yes."

Esposito: "I want to repeat that. ... Charge it to yourself then, and you charge Beaumont."

LaRossa: "No problem, Meade."

NO THROAT CANCER

Elton John recovering

SYDNEY—Pop music star Elton John does not have throat cancer and is expected to make a full recovery following successful throat surgery this week, his doctor said yesterday.

John's Australian publicist, Patti Mostyn, said the 40-year-old singer had been released from St. Vincent's Private Hospital, where he underwent a 30-minute operation Tuesday on his vocal cords.

"The biopsy has shown that Elton John has a nonmalignant lesion. He is expected to make a full recovery," the singer's doctor, Dr. John Tonkin, said in a statement.

Australian newspapers had reported that he was suffering from nodules on his vocal cords, but the hospital did not confirm the reports.

U.S. Said to Ask Approval Of a Move to Indict Biaggi

By SELWYN RAAB

Federal prosecutors in Brooklyn have asked the Justice Department for approval to seek indictments against Representative Mario Biaggi of the Bronx and the former Brooklyn Democratic leader Meade H. Esposito on charges of bribery and obstruction of justice, law-enforcement officials said yesterday.

A memorandum outlining the findings of a six-month investigation and the potential charges against both men was submitted last week to Justice Department officials by the head of the department's Organized Crime Strike Force in Brooklyn, Edward A. McDonald, according to investigators familiar with the case.

Justice Department officials, who agreed to be interviewed on the condition of anonymity, said the proposed indictment concerned the roles of Mr. Esposito and Mr. Biaggi, who is a Democrat, in trying to obtain financial aid in 1965 and 1966 for the Coastal Dry Dock and Repair Company in the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Biaggi Denies Wrongdoing

Over the last 20 years, Mr. Biaggi and Mr. Esposito have been the targets of several Federal inquiries that were unrelated to the current one. None of the previous inquiries has resulted in an indictment.

Mr. Biaggi, in a statement issued by his Washington office, denied wrongdoing. "I maintain that I have engaged in no wrongdoing and I am confident that will be borne out when the entire process is completed," he said. "I have cooperated fully in all aspects of this investigation and will continue to do so."

Mr. Esposito did not return telephone calls made to his office in Manhattan. Mr. Esposito's lawyer, Ronald G. Russo, was not in New York City yesterday, according to his receptionist, and could not be reached for comment.

Federal officials and investigators familiar with the case said prosecutors contend that Mr. Esposito and Mr. Biaggi paid for a contract taken by Mr. Biaggi and his company, provided by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to investigate the company's operations.

ner to play in the Super Bowl two weeks later. The celebration to honor the Giants would be held after the Super Bowl, he said. Mr. Koch has said the city should not be host to a celebration for the Giants because they had left New York to play their home games in Giants Stadium at the Meadowlands in New Jersey. Mr. Vallone, who would not give details of the proposed celebration, said he understood the Mayor's position and did not blame him. The Councilman said that he, "as a long-suffering Giant fan" and a former football player, thought a celebration was appropriate.

return for Mr. Biaggi petitioning other Democratic legislators and Senators and local officials to provide financial assistance to Coastal Company. Coastal's president and chief executive, Charles McDonald, is a longtime friend of Mr. Esposito, and Coastal has been a help to Mr. Esposito's business interests, according to several sources, investigators said. Mr. Biaggi's lawyer, Harry I. Florio, said he had been told that Mr. Biaggi had been asked to take members of the municipal government's employees to the Navy Yard. Mr. Biaggi had been asked to take members of the municipal government's employees to the Navy Yard.

The officials said the proposed joint indictment of Mr. Esposito and Mr. Biaggi stemmed from a broader investigation by the Strike Force into links between political figures and people suspected of being involved in organized crime. The investigators declined to give details about how Mr. Esposito and Mr. Biaggi had been linked, and whether funds obtained by Coastal were to be funneled to Mr. Esposito's insurance company, Secura Viscosa & Rice. On May 15, 1984, Coastal is a petition to subpoena the company filed with the Federal District Court in Brooklyn, said a spokesman for the Strike Force. The company is a partner in a business partnership with the Esposito family, according to the Strike Force.

to Coastal by the Brooklyn Navy Yard Development Corporation, a nonprofit community agency that operates the Navy Yard. Navy Yard records show that Coastal was charged between $3 million and $4 million annually for utilities. Mr. Ferrario said he knew of no other "intervention" by Mr. Biaggi and was unaware of any dealings Coastal had with Mr. Esposito. Federal authorities obtained documents from Coastal, but Mr. Ferrario declined to say what they concerned and if they had been subpoenaed. The two principal officials of Coastal, Mr. McDonald, the president, and his son, Vincent J. Montanti, the executive vice president, did not return telephone calls. Mr. McDonald's request to submit the case to a grand jury in Brooklyn was made to the chief of the Justice Department's Organized Crime and Racketeering Section in Washington, David Margolis, and to the Department's Criminal Division.

All Strike Force cases that are considered significant must be reviewed by top Justice Department officials before an indictment can be sought. The memorandum also was submitted to the United States Attorney in the Eastern District, Andrew J. Maloney, whose jurisdiction includes Brooklyn. Justice Department officials, who have reviewed Mr. McDonald's findings, said they expected he would be given approval to seek indictments. The case, they added, is expected to go before the grand jury within a month. Mr. McDonald, Mr. Maloney and Mr. Margolis declined to comment. Mr. Biaggi, who is 69 years old, has represented a Bronx Congressional district since 1969. The 80-year-old Mr. Esposito was the leader of the Democratic Party in Brooklyn, the country's biggest Democratic county organization, for 16 years before quitting the post in 1984.

The killed were Daljit Ahluwalia, 31, Manhattan, and Guljinder Ahluwalia, 35, of Queens. Mr. Scott, who was arrested a month, is charged with second-degree murder, second-degree attempted murder, first-degree robbery, first-degree attempted robbery and second-degree assault, Mr. Morgenthau said. Charges Dismissed In Friedman Scuffle

NEW HAVEN A judge yesterday dismissed assault charges against Stanley M. Friedman, the former Bronx Democrat leader; his wife, Jacqueline, and New York photographer that resulted from a scuffle last November. The photographer for The Daily News, Robin Graubard, had accused the Friedmans of assaulting her; she was taking pictures of them in New Haven hotel after Mr. Friedman and three others were convicted Nov. 25 on Federal corruption charges. The New Haven police charged the Friedmans with third-degree assault and then arrested Ms. Graubard on the same charge when the couple filed a countercomplaint. After the assault charges were dismissed.

As Justice Department officials consider indicting him on bribery charges, Rep. Mario Biaggi said yesterday that he did nothing wrong and that he would be cleared in a probe of his activity in connection with a financially strapped Brooklyn ship repair firm.

"I maintain that I have engaged in no wrongdoing and am confident that this will be borne out when the entire process is completed," Biaggi said in a statement released by his spokesman, Mortimer Matz.

"I have cooperated fully in all the aspects of this investigation and will continue to do so," Biaggi said in his statement. Biaggi, a Democrat, this week began his 10th term representing the 19th Congressional District in the Bronx.

A memorandum recommending the indictment of Biaggi, 69, and former Brooklyn Democratic party boss Meade Esposito on bribery and obstruction of justice charges has been submitted by the Brooklyn federal organized crime strike force to Eastern District U.S. Attorney Andrew Maloney and Justice Department officials in Washington, according to law enforcement sources.

One federal source, who asked not to be identified, said that approval of the indictment request was likely in the next two or three weeks. Neither strike force chief Edward McDonald nor Maloney would comment.

Strike force officials have been probing Biaggi and the 80-year-old Esposito since at least June, when federal agents seized records at two Esposito-owned firms: Serres, Visoni & Rice, a

Assault Case Is Dropped

By Josh Friedman

A New Haven judge yesterday dismissed assault charges against former Bronx Democratic boss Stanley Friedman and his wife for allegedly hitting a Daily News photographer in November.

New Haven Superior Court Judge Paul M. Foti threw out the charges at the request of Assistant Connecticut State's Attorney Burton Kaplan after Kaplan held a long conference yesterday morning with Friedman, his wife, Jackie, photographer Robin Graubard and their attorneys.

The Friedmans and Graubard were each charged with third-degree assault after an incident Nov. 25 at the Colony Inn, five blocks from the New Haven federal court house where Friedman had been found guilty a few hours before of engineering bribes to get city Parking Violations Bureau contracts.

The Friedmans were preparing to leave the inn, which had served as defense headquarters during the 10-week trial, when Graubard approached them to take a picture and an altercation took place. She accused them of throwing her to the ground. They accused her of hitting Jackie Friedman with a camera.

Kaplan confirmed in an interview that he told Foti in court that neither party wanted to pursue the case in criminal court and he saw "no reason" to go on with it. He said a civil suit might be filed.

Graubard's attorney, Stamford lawyer Peter Truebner, said yesterday that Graubard "tentatively" planned to sue Friedman in civil court sometime in the future. Friedman's attorney, Thomas Puccio said, "it's up to Stanley."

Truebner said Kaplan had been "distinctly unenthusiastic" about pursuing the case criminally and encouraged the parties to drop it. But he said there was "absolutely no" sign that any political pressure had been brought on either the prosecutor or the judge. Kaplan and Truebner said they had never talked with Friedman or Puccio before yesterday.

A Long Road to Repairs

Chunks of asphalt are all that's left of Dune Road in Southampton, L.I., a week after the storm that washed away two homes and much of the beach there. Suffolk County Acting Executive Michael LoGrande said yesterday he would declare a state of emergency, but state and federal officials held out little hope of aid.

New Inspection Stations for City Cabs

By Margaret Gordy

The Taxi and Limousine Commission has chosen 10 new service stations to inspect yellow cabs in response to widespread corruption allegations against the previously licensed operators, TLC Chairman Gorman Gilbert said yesterday.

Taxi owners, however, said they expected price-gouging and demands for bribes to continue until the TLC prohibits the stations from doing both the inspection and the repairs on a cab.

Until now, the commission had automatically renewed the licenses of 15 service stations, which for years have conducted the required three-month inspections of the city's 11,787 taxis. Many cabbies complain that because the stations are allowed to charge only $5 per inspection, the operators jack up their profits by demanding unnecessary repairs to be done by their own staff at often-exorbitant prices.

"The important thing about the new system is that licenses will be reviewed yearly," said Gilbert. "No longer will people be adopted for life."

The commission has created a hotline taxi owners can use to report any alleged improprieties they encounter at these stations, Gilbert said. Complaints can be made during weekday office hours at (212) 302-8692.

TLC officials said only 10 stations in the city were found to meet the commission's new, higher service standards, and none of them is in Manhattan.

"There is no way only 10 stations can handle all the cabs in this city," said Bobby Arroyo, a spokesman for the United Yellow Taxi Drivers Guild. "This is also going to increase the taxi shortage, because cabs will have to leave Manhattan, where business is heaviest, to waste a day waiting in line for an inspection."

The Independent Taxi Owners Council urged the TLC to bar the inspection stations from repairing the same cabs they review. Otherwise, said council Chairman Howard Fogel, "There's too big an incentive for them to require phony repairs."

TLC licensing chief Merrill Libbey said the commission could not reasonably set that limit on stations unless it drastically increased the inspection fees the stations can charge — an act that requires City Council approval.

make them soon," Quinones said.

Among the changes Quinones has proposed is a high school race relations curriculum that includes case studies on pre-Civil War slavery, the slaughter of Armenians around World War I, the World War II Holocaust and South Africa's apartheid policy. The curriculum has not been adopted yet.

Lester, 17, one of 11 white youths who police say beat the three black men with baseball bats and tree limbs, has been formally charged with reckless endangerment.

The teenager will be in a Kew Gardens courtroom today to face sentencing on a charge of third-degree gun possession in an unrelated incident. Lester pleaded guilty to the charge in exchange for five years' probation. He had been arrested by police in August with a man in a stolen car. Police said they found a holstered gun under Lester's car seat.

In reporting on a Newsday detailing how a detective may have improperly obtained an incriminating statement from Lester, Thomas McCarthy a spokesman for Queens District Attorney John J. Santucci said, "We will oppose the suppression of any of the statements attributed to the defendant."

Det. Peter Fiorello took a statement from the youth, unaware that the teenager had demanded to see a lawyer. Sources said that although most detectives in the 106th Precinct station house knew they were precluded by law from taking a statement from Lester, Fiorello apparently wasn't told of Lester's request, sources said. Portions of the statement were later used against Lester in a Dec. 29th felony hearing.

Although McCarthy insisted there was "no foulup by police," he refused to either describe how Fiorello obtained Lester's statement or comment on a Newsday report of the events.

the commissioner's home will be made tomorrow, according to Assemb. Roger Green (D-Brooklyn), one of the boycott organizers.

Regarding the boycott, "I think we're going to aim at big ticket items, the downtown type stores," said Jitu Weusi, a Brooklyn activist who is also one of the organizers.

"We're not going to be unreasonable. We know that people need to get milk for their babies, so I don't think we'll be including neighborhood or 'mom and pop' stores," Weusi said.

He said final plans for the Jan. 21 "day of mourning," which is being called to protest the racially motivated killing of Griffith, 23, in Howard Beach, will be made tomorrow during a meeting at the offices of Local 1199 of the Hospital and Health Care Employees Union in Manhattan.

Other protest organizers, speaking on the condition that their names not be used, said the Jan. 21 action would supersede the pizzeria boycott announced by attorney C. Vernon Mason at a news conference last Saturday. There was a feeling that the pizzeria announcement was made without a consensus of those who have been involved in protests over Griffith's killing, the sources said.

Asked about the possibility of a wider boycott at a later date, Weusi, a social science teacher at Junior High School 265 in the Fort Green section of Brooklyn, said, "I think it's a very good chance."

Assemb. Green said participants at tomorrow's meeting will try to target "businesses that have been a major contributor to racism in the city." As possibilities, he mentioned department stores, the media or other "industries... that have discriminatory hiring practices or project negative images" of blacks.

After the 1977 acquittal of Toney in the killing of Evans, Brooklyn minister Daughtry led a controversial boycott of downtown stores. For about a year, pickets distributed leaflets outside a number of major department stores.

Toward the end of 1978, a coalition of the downtown merchants agreed to a package of programs that included 10 annual Randolph Evans Scholarships for black youths. The agreement also included the funding of a Randolph Evans "crisis" fund, which received about $400,000 over six years, said Weusi, who was the program's director.

Today's special at La Petite Unidentified Woman's Grocery Cart on East 77th Street in Manhattan was a matter of some suspense to her regulars: She took her time sorting through her basket of goodies before announcing the menu. Those with early reservations tipped off their friends, who flocked in.

Embattled Biaggi Is Firm

Manhattan insurance company, and Beaumont Printing in Farmingdale, L.I. Records belonging to Biaggi and Coastal Dry Dock and Repair Corp., were also subpoenaed, law enforcement sources said.

Biaggi is under investigation for possible receipt of a payoff from Esposito in the form of a Florida vacation in return for the congressman helping Coastal, which is now in proceedings under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy law in an effort to reorganize its operations. Biaggi allegedly was involved in helping the firm obtain federal contracts, sources said. Biaggi has asserted he paid for the vacation with his own American Express card and by check.

One investigator said that federal agents questioned Biaggi and Esposito about the vacation, placed a wiretap on Esposito's telephone and overheard both men in a conversation that suggested they hadn't been candid with investigators. Apparently on the basis of that conversation, federal officials disclosed in court in July that Biaggi was being investigated for obstruction of justice. But one source said there may not be enough evidence to sustain an obstruction charge.

Biaggi's attorney, Barry Slotnick, wouldn't comment on any matter pending before the Justice Department but reiterated that the Florida trip was paid for by Biaggi, although he couldn't provide dates of any payments.

Slotnick also told The Associated Press that Biaggi did "nothing other than everyday things congressmen do for their constituents." Biaggi's congressional district covers part of the Bronx and Westchester.

Pete Bowles contributed to this story.

little money and in the long-run it's ultimately cost-free because of industry sponsors," Dressler said. He's already had calls from two or three potential sponsors for the Giants bash — should they win the Super Bowl.

But at City Hall yesterday, Koch heard a price he liked even better.

City Council Majority Leader Peter F. Vallone said he would hold a "Giant event" should the team win Sunday's game against the Redskins that would not cost the taxpayers a penny.

While Vallone refused to say what the "event" might be, when Koch heard of Vallone's claim, he said: "Oh, I don't mind a proposal that doesn't cost any money. I love the Giants, even if they're in New Jersey."

"I have always said that I have great regional pride. I am not against the Giants. I hope they will win. So if Peter Vallone, in some magical way, has come up with a celebration that wouldn't cost the taxpayers of the city of New York a penny, I'm for it."

Koch also refuses to indulge in any bets with other mayors over the Giants and last week turned down San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein, who tried to get a little action on last week's game against the 49ers, which the Giants won. Koch referred her to Moonachie.

Dressler accepted the San Francisco challenge and won. So now, on Jan. 16, a group of children will sing "Moonachie," the town's song, in Chinese and in English on the steps of San Francisco City Hall.

What's more, Dressler has been invited to attend.

"I gotta catch with my boss. I got to make a living," said Dressler, who is an equipment development engineer with RJB Nabisco. "I think it's debatable."

Instructions

Subject Priorities for FBI Arrest or Locates:
 A - Subject wanted for crimes of violence (i.e. murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.
 B - Subjects wanted for crimes involving the loss or destruction of property valued in excess of $25,000 or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.
 C - All others

Claiming Non-Federal Arrests, Summonses, Recoveries or Convictions:
 It is permissible to claim a local arrest, summons, recovery or conviction if the FBI significantly contributed to the accomplishment. A succinct narrative setting forth the basis for the claim must accompany this report. When claiming a local recovery, enter the word "LOCAL" to the right of the amount. Enter "LF" in the "In-Jail" block for all life sentences and "CP" for capital punishment sentences.

Reporting Convictions:
 Convictions should not be reported until the sentence has been issued. There are two exceptions to this rule. The conviction information can be submitted by itself if:
 1. The subject becomes a fugitive after conviction but prior to sentencing.
 2. The subject dies after conviction but prior to sentencing.
 An explanation is required in the Remarks section for either of the above exceptions.

Rule 20 Situations:
 The field office that obtained the process (normally the office of origin) is the office that should claim the conviction, not the office where the subject enters the plea in cases involving Rule 20 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedures.

Investigative Assistance or Techniques (IA/Ts) Used:
 -Since more than one IA/T could have contributed to the accomplishment, each IA/T used must be rated.
 -The IA/T used must be rated each time an accomplishment is claimed. (For example - if informant information was the basis for a complaint, an arrest, a recovery and a conviction and if separate FD-515s are submitted for each of the aforementioned accomplishments, the "Informant Information" block must be rated on each FD-515 even if it was the same information that contributed to all the accomplishments.)

Race Codes:
 C = Chinese; I = Indian/American; J = Japanese; N = Negro; O = All other; U = Unknown; W = White

Esposito-Biaggi Trial Under Way

Two Described As 'Deal Maker,' 'Compromised'

By Pete Bowles

Former Brooklyn Democratic leader Meade Esposito was described as an "old deal maker" and Rep. Mario Biaggi as a congressman who "allowed himself to be compromised" as their bribery and conspiracy trial opened yesterday.

"Meade Esposito is an old deal maker — one whose way of life is contacts and contracts and opening doors," Edward McDonald, chief of the Organized Crime Strike Force in Brooklyn, said of the 80-year-old Esposito, who retired in 1984 after heading the Brooklyn Democratic organization for 14 years. "He is a man who expects something in return for everything he does."

McDonald charged that Biaggi, 69, the senior member of the city's congressional delegation with 19 years in Congress, had "corruptly accepted bribes and gratuities from Esposito and cheated the government out of his fair and impartial service" by agreeing to use his influence to assist Coastal Dry Dock and Repair Corp., which has since collapsed.

Neither defendant showed any emotion — Esposito

Esposito-Biaggi Trial Begins

Esposito chewed on an empty cigarholder — as McDonald outlined the charges against them. The two longtime political powers are charged with having conspired to defraud the United States and violate federal bribery statutes in order to secure assistance for Coastal, the ship-repair company insured by Esposito's brokerage firm.

The opening statements by attorneys in Brooklyn federal court came after U.S. District Court Judge Jack B. Weinstein denied defense motions that the jury be disbanded and replaced on the ground that prosecutors had deliberately excluded persons of Italian descent.

Esposito is charged with paying for Biaggi and a woman friend to vacation at a Florida health spa in 1984 and with arranging to pay for a second trip a year later as part of an alleged agreement in which Biaggi used his influence to help Coastal. As part of the alleged conspiracy, the indictment said, Esposito also treated Biaggi and the woman, Barbara Barlow, to a five-day trip to St. Maarten.

In their opening statements, defense attorneys described the two defendants as longtime friends who helped Coastal out of a desire to save the company — a major employer in Brooklyn with 2,000 employees — and help the community.

"Mario Biaggi was indicted essentially because he was doing his job," said Biaggi's attorney, Barry Slotnick.

Esposito's attorney, Edward Brodsky, called his client a "savvy political figure" who often treated friends and public figures to trips and other forms of entertainment.

"If Meade Esposito wants to ask a congressman to do something that is perfectly proper to do, knowing all these politicians, he doesn't have to pay him a bribe to do something that is perfectly proper in the first place," Brodsky said.

McDonald said Esposito sought Biaggi's assistance in 1984 to help Coastal with problems it was having with the city — which was considering evicting Coastal from the Brooklyn Navy Yard for nonpayment of utility bills — and with the Navy, which was disputing payment claims filed by Coastal.

"Meade Esposito stood to lose a lot if Coastal went out of business," said McDonald, pointing out that it one of the largest clients of Esposito's insurance brokerage firm — Serres, Visona & Rice. "He turned to Biaggi in a corrupt way in which he got Mario Biaggi to use his influence for Coastal Dry Dock in return for free vacations."

Biaggi's defense: just doing his job

By HARRY CAPECI

Daily News Staff Writer

A federal prosecutor yesterday painted Bronx Congressman Mario Biaggi and his long-time pal Meade Esposito, the Brooklyn Democratic boss, as corrupt pols who traded favors to try to bail out a failing ship-repair firm, Coastal Dry Dock.

"They tried to create jobs for Brooklyn," Esposito's lawyer, Edward Brodsky, told an eight-man, four-woman jury as the politicians' bribery trial opened in a packed Brooklyn Federal Court room.

Biaggi, a Democrat, "was indicted essentially because he was doing his job," said his attorney, Barry Slotnick, who charged that the "ambition of a federal prosecutor to convict a congressman" is the reason his client is on trial.

FBI/DOJ

Family appearance

Biaggi's four children, Jacqueline, Barbara, Mario Jr., and Richard, who faces racketeering charges with his father in Manhattan stemming from the Wedtech scandal, were among the spectators who filled the courtroom of Chief Judge Jack Weinstein.

Esposito's grandson, Robert Zito, who is a member of Brodsky's law firm, was the only Esposito family member to attend the session.

"It's not what they did, but why they did it," said Organized Crime Strike Force chief Edward McDonald, who told the jurors that the veteran political allies were partners in a corrupt scheme to defraud the government and the public.

"That's what this case is all about," said McDonald, "the way in which Meade Esposito turned to Mario Biaggi, the corrupt way, and the corrupt way in which Biaggi allowed himself to be compromised."

McDonald described Esposito as an "old deal maker" who "expects something in return for everything he does."

'Free vacations'

"We're not saying there's something wrong with a congressman helping a financially troubled company, it's why he helped Coastal. You'll find that he helped because Esposito asked him and because he gave him free vacations," McDonald said.

Esposito is charged with paying for a 1984 Florida vacation for Biaggi and former model Barbara Barlow and agreeing to pay for one the couple took the following year. In return, Biaggi allegedly agreed to use his congressional influence on behalf of Coastal, which went bankrupt last year owing Esposito's insurance firm $613,000 in premiums.

In his remarks, Slotnick implored the jurors not to hold Biaggi's extramarital relationship with Barlow against him. "The fact that Congressman Biaggi traveled with a woman who is not his wife is not part of this case," said Slotnick.

If convicted, the defendants face fines and 15 years in prison. The trial is expected to last two weeks.

Biaggi put on hold

Conviction has cut power

By ADAM NACHTWEY

The Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Over-whelmed by legal difficulties and facing punishment by his own colleagues, Rep. Mario Biaggi (D-Brooklyn) is going through the motions of office — attending hearings, delivering speeches and issuing press releases — even as power slips away from him.

Like the senior member of New York's congressional delegation, he is expected to keep up a working schedule despite the fact that he is barred from voting or speaking over the two subcommittees he chairs.

"People look at him as history," said one congressman who requested anonymity. "He's making a valiant effort to make it look like he's doing his job. There's a great deal of sympathy for Mario. But I don't think anyone regards him as a player."

"People would probably not be as likely to get in touch with him," said Garry Timmons, a lobbyist for the National Education Association. Since he was found guilty Sept. 22 in Brooklyn federal court for accepting an illegal gratuity, Biaggi has kept up his regular morning appearances on the House floor to deliver remarks on pet topics.

Impressing constituents

But these are speeches that usually have little to do with decision-making in the House; rather they are a chance for the lawmaker to get his remarks in the Congressional Record and impress constituents.

Biaggi also appears at committee hearings — the other day, he joined a vigorous debate at a joint congressional hearing on overseas schools and a House Education Committee aide said that Biaggi's staff played an active role in negotiating the extension of the Older Americans Act, which provides a variety of help programs for senior citizens.

"I haven't had any issues where he was unable to help," said Judy Chessar, head of New York City's lobbying office. "If it's in his jurisdiction, my feeling is he's still a member of Congress and I'm alerting his office."

"I don't see him slowing down," insists Rep. Gary Ackerman (D-Queens). "He's on the floor all the time. He seems strong."

But Ackerman conceded, "A lot of it (Biaggi's activity) has to do with keeping his morale up." And colleagues and lobbyists said Biaggi's influence has significantly waned.

Some of the victories in which Biaggi can claim a hand — like the Older Americans Act — were in the pipeline before his conviction.

Colleagues' power influence group owes largely to his popularity and a factor based on the fact he was convicted on charges.

Biaggi was sentenced to 30 months in prison on Nov. 8, but is out pending appeal. The House ethics committee is likely to recommend shortly what penalties to impose on him. The toughest would be expulsion.
